

Department of Commerce, Government P.G. College for Women, Gandhi Nagar, Jammu organised a lecture on the topic “Interpersonal Communication Skills”. The resource person was a vibrant and enthusiastic chartered Accountant Mr. Sourab Arora.

He apprised the students about the importance of communication skills and how the skills help the students to reach the pinnacle in life whilst enjoying a panoramic journey. He further added that communication is the ability to interact with people through effective listening. These skills will help to connect with people and benefit their personality development too. The facts about interpersonal communication skills are that only 7% of messages are verbal, 38% of messages consist of voice and tone, 55% of the message consists of body language. Technical skill accounts for 15% and people skill accounts for 85%. Females have better visual and auditory skills than males. The students were very excited after the session. Principal of the college Dr.SageetaNagari addressed the students and was impressed upon that development of soft skills in the students is the need of the hour and these attributes enable the students to engage in meaningful interactions with others. Since most jobs require teamwork, it’s important to possess soft skills to enhance employability and achieve a dream job.Prof. Mamta Gupta H.O.D commerce, welcomed the resource person and principal madam. She ensured that such lectures will be organised by the department in the near future. Vote of Thanks was presented by Prof.MamtaKundal.
